Public Notice

As chairwoman of the Bella Vita Belles Nominating Committee, and as prescribed in the by-laws, the Nominating Committee is announcing that the Bella Vita Belles board is up for re-election.

The board positions are: President, Vice President, Treasurer, Secretary

If anyone is interested in any of these positions, please contact the Nominating Committee for guidance: Amira Hemme (Chair), Bonnie Billick, Sandra Bornstein, Dianne Clement, Mary Westfahl.

FROM THE BOARD

By Connie Harry, President

At the September 26, 2018 meeting, the Board adopted the 2019 Budget for BellaVita. Because of increased budget requirements, an increase in dues to $262 per month will become effective January 1, 2019. In the next few days, Inframark will be mailing a copy of the budget along with a notice advising how to plan your payments for 2019.

The Board faces a choice each year to cut amenities or increase dues. Based on sales, BellaVita is a highly desirable neighborhood. Costs of homes have increased, and sales are quick. Part of this demand is because of the amenities offered. The facilities at BellaVita are aging and cost increases annually for maintenance and repair. In addition to the contracts for maintenance, we rely on the hard work and dedication of our committees to help keep cost down on many of our amenities. Our contractual obligations for landscaping, and professional services fees have increased.

This is never an easy decision, but BellaVita is a business and must be run as such with an eye to balancing our budget while maintaining the lifestyle that we have become accustomed to enjoying.

Harmful Bugs Hiding In Plain Sight

If you're itching and scratching from what feels like tiny bugs but you can't see anything, don't just assume that it's all in your head. A number of tiny, microscopic pests may be living around you, even in your own home, without your knowledge.

We'll take a look at some of these microscopic pests and how they can impact your life:

Fleas

Fleas are tiny, wingless creatures that are dark brown/red in color and usually around 2.5 mm in length. Without wings, fleas are unable to fly, but their legs make jumping their preferred form of transportation. They like to hide in and move through the fur on animals.

Mites

microscopic bug that is often difficult to see with the naked eye, mites are normally harmless to humans but some can be a truly ite-leaving tiny, itchy red spots. Mites often travel on hosts, such as birds or rodents, meaning that controlling larger pests is a first priority before being able to control mites.

Bed Bugs

These little guys travel by grabbing onto bedding, clothing, suitcases and more. Bed bugs are small, flat and oval-shaped wingless creatures in a brownish-red color. Sneaky and difficult to find, they hide in the folds in soft furniture (such as mattresses or sofas) and come out at night. Bites on humans are red, itchy and swollen, often occurring in zigzag lines or clusters. Getting rid of bed bugs almost always requires the help of a professional.

Lice

While these parasitic creatures don't carry diseases, they can certainly cause massive irritation. Thriving on the scalp and body of humans (especially school-aged children) lice spread when eggs come into contact with hair, hats, combs, or clothing. Small, reddish bites are often found on the back of the neck and behind the ears. Adult lice are dark gray-ish in color and can be seen with the naked eye, but their eggs (called nits) are whitish-gray, shiny, and more difficult to see. Lice reproduce every couple of weeks so the process needs to be stopped immediately upon discovery. Combing, attentive laundry procedures, vacuuming and special shampoos may all be enlisted to fight a lice infestation.

Ticks

Spending time outdoors, especially in brushy or forest areas, can mean picking up these little hitch-hikers along the way. Parasitic ticks make their homes on animals and humans, waiting on leaves or bushes for someone to pass by. In the same family as spiders, ticks are reddish brown with eight legs, and like to burrow into their hosts. Because of the nasty diseases they can spread, it is important to perform tick checks on people and animals after they come in from outside adventures. Preventative measures such as tick spray and protective clothing are important.

No-See-Ums

Tiny creatures that like to breed in moist places, No-See-Ums are only .03 inches long and easy to mistake for specks of dust or dirt. They're so small that they can often permeate through standard window screening. Other names include gnats, sand flies, or biting midges.

Similar to mosquitoes, the female injects her saliva under the skin which causes smallish, red splotches to develop. These extremely itchy bites can grow up to 2 inches in diameter. Bug spray and special screening may help with prevention.

Obviously, when it comes to insects and other pests, just because you can't see them doesn't mean they aren't out to get you. That is why it is important to be attentive and aware of pest prevention even before you detect a problem.

TRASH IN LAKE!

The staff has reported there has been household trash in the lake, including empty insulin bottles and needles. This is a health hazard as well as an unsightly and unnecessary clean up required by maintenance. Please ensure that your household trash is properly disposed of and secured in bags in front of your homes and is placed outside only on the day of trash pickup if possible. Additionally, there is a problem with "critters" getting into neighborhood trash and scattering on the yards and streets. We realize that some still work and others enjoy a late morning in and put their trash outside the evening before. Remember - not before 6 p.m. Please help us keep BellaVita beautiful!

We as a BellaVita family are always saddened by the news of one of our own passing. The Bereavement Committee of the Belles Club works diligently to assist with the food needs for a memorial for the family and friends when the event is held at our clubhouse.

The staff stands ready to assist with all needs for table set ups, audio and visual and other requirements.

It is imperative that a family member work with the staff to schedule a date for the memorial, sign forms for insurance purposes, and arrange for food assistance. There are many events held in the clubhouse daily and arrangements must be made for cancellation and/or relocation of these events and notice to all participants.

Your cooperation is appreciated.
